

It has become abundantly clear to other concerned voters and me that Title 2 is the only sufficient way to protect net neutrality. I, like any Republican worth their salt, disapprove of government regulations on business. But this is a clear case of cracking an egg to make an omelette: without these (unideal) regulations, internet providers are allowed to interfere with the lives of everyday Americans with virtually unchecked power. I am a passionate advocate for the free market and light touch regulations. But I am also a passionate advocate for Americans. So, please, uphold Title 2 and net neutrality for all.
